POLICE INTELLIGENCE.

Defendant said: that the chair-coolies took him round to all the places imaginable except the wharf which he went to, to get a view of making his bill as low as possible. He was fined 5 cents, and ordered to pay chair-coolies 30 cents.

STREET GAMING.

Lau-a-bai, a hawk, was sent to seven days' hard labor, for gambling in a public street, at 2 p.m. on the 16th instant.

JAILHOUSE DETENTION.

Wong-a-koon, a woman, residing in the Queen's Road Central, was apprehended by virtue of a warrant, and charged by a married woman named K-a-lu, residing in Queen's Road West, with unlawfully detaining her child.

Complainant, stated that from the information she had at the magistracy, a warrant was issued for the apprehension of defendant. In November last, she procured $30 from the defendant, and left her daughter with her in pledge for the money. On the 11th instant, she went to redeem the child, when the defendant refused to hand her over.

His Worship asked the complainant where the $30 was, when defendant, after some considerable fussing, brought out $32, and said she offered that sum on the 11th instant, and promised to make up the balance.

His Worship here read her former information, wherein it was stated that on the 11th instant, she offered $20, the sum borrowed. His Worship told her both statements could not be true.

Witness said the last was true. She had also to complain of ill treatment on the part of defendant towards her child. This was shown to be false.

At this stage, a bill of sale put in showed that the child was sold to defendant on the 15th November, 1873, for a sum of $40.

Complainant was told that she and her husband were unable to bring a child or her child in any way, and they could not expect to find a woman and her mother to be more untruthful than the mother.

A complainant was shown a child was sick, and she was compelled to nurse her child. She did not sell her.

The husband of complainant, named Chin-fong, said he was very sick on the 15th November, and that day he took the child to defendant, and asked for some money, leaving the child with her as his daughter. He now wanted his child back, as the sum of $40 from defendant was not paid.

His Worship said he could do nothing further than order the child to be delivered back to her husband, and informed them that their humanity would prompt them to take another $20, for the child.

The child was then delivered over to the complainant, and defendant was discharged, but was informed that, for the future, when she became kind enough to lend money, not to take human beings in pledge, as it would give other dumb animals. If people came to her with such a bill, she could buy them, but if human beings came and offered their offspring, she was not to take them.

BEARER OF THE STAMP ACT.
Chinese coolie Lee-a-yun, No. 290, was summoned under section XXIII. of Ordinance of 1856, by Mr. Simpson, acting collector of stamp revenue, for failing to produce a promissory note for $30, to one Low-pai, master of the Wing-cheung ship.

Mr. Sharp, Crown solicitor, appeared to prosecute, and stated that the necessary application having been forwarded to the Attorney-General, through the Colonial Secretary, and the application granted to prosecute, he appeared to do so. The case stood thus. The defendant promised to give money from the ship, and that date arriving, the man Low-pai, finding his money not forthcoming, went to the Stamp Office to get the note stamped, as he had to produce it to the collector of the revenue, for him to be on the money. It was then the matter came under the notice of Mr. Simpson.

Mr. Simpson said that on the 18th January the man Low-pai and the defendant came to the office to have the promissory note produced stamped. It was dated 5th October. Finding it necessary to the promissory note, he made an application to prosecute.

Low-pai, master of the Wing-cheung ship, stated that on the 5th October he loaned the defendant $30, which were due on the 11th instant, on which date, not being able to get the money, he got a promissory note from the defendant, written that day, and antedated 5th October. On the 11th instant, he and defendant went to the Stamp Office to get the document stamped, and it was then they both found out their error.

It was here found that defendant acted quite innocently, in fact, thought he was complying with the law, and that he was satisfied with this, and it was then for him to be on the money, and the present case was a mild one.

Defendant was then nominally fined $1.

KIDNAPING.
Tsang-a-chong, a coolie, was charged with being a suspicious character, and with having been concerned in the case of a man named a young man, 15 years of age, who was kidnapped from the ship "Duchess," who was apprehended by the Chinese, No. 253, was remanded to Monday.

THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH'S MARRIAGE.

It is a fond dream of some theorists that there is a tendency in man, as he advances in civilization, to dispense with meaningless and pretentious ceremonies, and to adopt simpler and more expressive modes of life. The marriage ceremony of the Duke of Edinburgh, who goes far to dispel all such notions. The marriage will first take place according to the forms of the Greek Church, after describing the betrothal, and after the betrothal, the blessing of rings and crowns, and the crowning of bride and bridegroom, the Sicut Unus comes on. Each time takes in hand a glass of common wine, and they both pray to God, and a sponsor of witness to the union comes forward. The rings and the crowns worn by the bride and bridegroom are then introduced, after which hymns are sung by an officiating priest. The rings are then made by the bride and bridegroom, who carry lighted candles, the archbishop, bearing the accompanying the priest to the altar, and after the archbishop has conferred the benediction, the ceremony is concluded.

After this the comparatively mild form of the Anglican Church, which are more usual to complete the marriage, will appear. The ceremony is then concluded, and the bride and bridegroom, who are seated in the large room of the Palace set apart for the purpose.
